

This man is a ghost

from a certain colonial Belgium, now deceased. Appointed, in december 2011, Minister of Foreign affairs of a State whose international stature results from its pretadory and murderous adventure in Congo, Didier Reynders is favoring Joseph Kabila's electoral hold-up, backing Paul Kagame's appetite for mass murder and despising the memory of over 5 million dead in Congo in order to resurrect Belgian diplomacy of the past : No effect. Because one's has to face the truth : 1. Belgium has no real strategic power anymore 2. Nobody believes in ghosts. And in this 21st century, ghosts don't even scare kids anymore.

Don't believe the hype. Believe the facts.
